Infantry, Company H, under command of Colonel Amierson. This regiment was recruited to its full quota at Jefferson Bartarks and was ordered to the Philippines, Bucklew writes from Lipo, Luzon, under nie of April 26, 1990, as follows:

After arriving here in December we went into campon the Lancton January we were ordered to the south line, where the differthe towns of Margabo, Paramague, Las Primes and Zapote Bridge.

"January 10 began the southward movement, destined to be a march to the sea through a heretefore unitvaded country knewn as the stronghold of the insurrectors. as well as being one of the wealthiest and most populous Provinces on the island. As the regiment marched to Dasmatinus they draw before them a small and badly frightened band of insurgents, who, beyond an occasional shot, did not distinguish themselves. A two days' rest and the regimen marched to Slinng, where they received or ders to report to General Schwan, who ordered us to march to Tallsay, over moun-tain trails which looked impassable. Here we engaged in our first fight. We were passing along a mountain trail that led to the city, when we were fired on.

"Our battallon was in front and Major Holbrook deployed his companies and we were soon in action. The enemy's fire continued until the battallon had crossed the river. They then changed position, but were met by a murderous cross-fire and fled, leaving their wounded on the fleld. We thea entered the city. No further resistance was entered the city. No further resistance was met with nutil we reached Late, about two miles north of Lipa. This town was the headquarters of General Maliver of the insurgent army, who was strengly intrenched. The entire brigade, consisting of the Thirty-eighth and Thirty-nighth Infantry and a battery, attacked the town. After a two fourse light we charged and the enemy field in disorder. Four of our men were killed and two wounded in this battle.

"We steld in Late a short lime and then pushed on to Lipa, which is the second largest fown on the island. At our approach the instangents field, leaving behind he spanded.

The stead in Luto a short time and then pushed on to idea, which is the second argest town on the island. At our approach the bisangents their learned from these prisoners that seven American and two English prisoners had been prisoners for eighteen mentlis. We bearined from these prisoners that seven American and two English prisoners had been taken along with the rebels in their flight. It was declied to pursue immediately, and all the burses available, rumbering seventien, were pressed into service, and a delactiment of about twenty men rode to the town of Rosario. Here the Americans and about fifty more Spanisa prisoners were found.

"On account of the bad roads Companies Mand II were sent forward to Tavsan to connect with Company I. After driving in the outposts we entered the city and found four privates of a company besieged in a church. They had been left behind with a church. They had been left behind with a church. They had been left behind with a church. When restoned they had only twenty founds of amountation and one ration left. The restment them moved to Batanzas from different allocation, and here we had another but le before enceding the city. After an engagement having about an hear we took the town, securing a large quantity of arms and ammunition and taking many prisoners. F and G proceeded up the fory and took Banam, a city of Semi time the regiment was control to idpa where we are now stationed.

"The taking of Zalempore, a mountain fortification, is warthy of special mention. This fort was protected by deep ravines which obstructed the approach to the place, but which proved of value in the approach, as they also protected our men in their charge on the mountains. After reaching and occupying Lobo we started on the return march, having crossed the island. Out of the twelve principal cities captured by the Thirty-eighth Infantry, rounds of ammunition and keeping the in-surgents on the move, the Province has outsted down except for engagements with small reduct bands of the enemy. The Thirty-eighth has its share of sick soldiers, and hope that the war will seen be called, as we wish to return to the States as soon as possible. We have not seen an American woman since we left Manifa, for-months ago, so you cannot bisme us for looking forward to the time when we can return.
